

Green Party

The Green Party aims to aid others in an eco-friendly way, so that not only the rights of people are being respected, but also aim to save our planet and save the future of our next generation. More money will be invested in the NHS, as well as improving working conditions and provide more jobs to protect the streets and public transport (hoping to end knife crime). Additionally, we want to make a future education affordable for every family, so university tuition fees of £9,250 will be reduced. The Green Party wants to end the system that keeps hurting the environment and all people who rely on it, after all "It's a vision of a better world, and together we can deliver it".
