

President Obama and First Lady Michelle Obama visit the American Red Cross.

PROPHETIC ROLE & ACHIEVEMENTS:

Throughout her reign as the 'First Lady', she devoted herself to helping others break the poverty cycle and learn how to deal with social issues.

During those 8 years, she made it her priority to ensure that all American children and families had better access to education, healthy food, and exercise as well as great economical and educational opportunities.

She led a variety of different campaigns that were aimed at all people in order to ensure that everyone was remembered and involved. These included the 'Let's Move' and the 'Let Girls Learn' campaigns.

The 'Let's Move' campaign in 2010 was targeted at those children who were suffering from obesity and was created in order to break the childhood obesity epidemic in America, through stressing the importance of exercise and movement.

Furthermore, one of her top priorities were to address bullying, racist, sexist, homophobic, xenophobic and anti-Semitic behaviour in addition to the increase in graffiti and threats.

Additionally, she has written several books, discussing racism and being black.

PRIESTLY ROLE:

Other than attending masses, Michelle Obama continuously included key verses from the Bible throughout her speeches.

Common quote used by her included:

We can speak these words loudly and clearly for all to hear. Everyone in the community can have the opportunity to combat these rising obstacles.
