

Head of Charity - Francene

Hello, my name is Francene and this academic year I have been given the privilege of being the Head of Charity, of our College community. I am ecstatic to take on this role and make a positive and lasting impact within our community.

Charity is something more than mere kindness and giving. It means tolerance, compassion and a patient sympathy for the failings and errors of others. I personally believe that charity begins at home and in our College community; it means that we need to start improving the world through our own lives.

During the course of this coming year; I shall strive to promote empathy, inclusivity and almsgiving so as to inspire both; our fellow students and the staff to engage in charitable causes such as fundraising, volunteering or raising awareness, for the needs of those around. In The Sacred Heart Language College, I shall endeavour to successfully raise money and awareness towards charitable causes. Charity not only improves lives of others by providing food, shelter, education, healthcare and other essentials but also empowers and enriches us as individuals through these acts of giving and kindness which can make a big difference - one individual act at a time.

These diverse forms of charity highlight the importance of giving back to others, whether these are achieved through individual acts of kindness or collective efforts to address larger issues within our society. Finally, I would like to quote Proverbs 28:27; “Those who give to the poor lack nothing”.
